Welcome Message

It is our great pleasure to warmly welcome you to the Kyoto 2026 International Forum on Design Service and Social Innovation.

In a world facing increasing complexity and uncertainty, design has become a vital force for driving systemic change and fostering social innovation. This forum, held in the historic yet forward-looking city of Kyoto, provides a unique platform where rich cultural heritage meets contemporary design wisdom. We hope that through academic exchange, cross-cultural dialogue, and practical exploration, we can collectively advance the frontiers of service design and social innovation.

Over the coming days, we look forward to engaging discussions, inspiring keynote presentations, insightful parallel sessions, and meaningful cultural experiences. We believe that your participation and contributions will make this forum a memorable and impactful event.

Thank you once again for joining us. We wish you a fruitful, inspiring, and enjoyable experience in Kyoto.

Warmest regards,

Organizing Committee

Conference Background and Topics

In an era of increasing global uncertainty, design has transcended its traditional roles in aesthetics and functionality to become a powerful force for systemic transformation and social innovation. Building on the success of the previous two editions held in Hong Kong, the Kyoto 2026 International Forum on Design Service and Social Innovation will take place in Kyoto. This city harmoniously integrates profound cultural heritage with vibrant contemporary design practices. Organized by Michelangelo Scholar Publishing Limited (MSPL) and co-organized by the Macau Asia Design Society, the forum adopts the theme “Evolving with Problems: Design Resilience and Cultural Inclusivity in an Era of Uncertainty.” It focuses on three core dimensions of service design in social innovation: theoretical frontiers, methodological innovation, and practical application. The forum will bring together leading scholars in service design, social innovation, and related interdisciplinary fields, as well as visionary industry leaders and experienced practitioners. The programme includes keynote addresses, parallel sessions, Gala Dinner, and academic poster exhibitions, providing multiple platforms for high-level academic exchange. Outstanding papers will have the opportunity to be published in MSPL’s international academic journals. In addition, a dedicated cultural field study in Kyoto will allow participants to engage with local traditional cultural sites and contemporary design institutions, fostering deeper cross-cultural reflection on design’s historical and contemporary practices. We warmly invite scholars and professionals from around the world to join us in Kyoto to collectively explore the future of service design and social innovation.

The invited experts and young scholars mainly include:

Ai Wenbo (Postdoctoral fellow, University of the Arts London)

An Cong, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Beijing Information Science and Technology University

Byoung-il Sun, Ph.D., Professor, Namseoul University, Seoul

Chun-Cheng Hsu (Professor, National Yang Ming Chiao Tung University)

Dominika Sobolewska, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Wroclaw Academy of Art & Design, Wroclaw

Fangwu Tung, Ph.D., Professor, National Tsing Hua University, Hsinchu

Fanke Peng, Ph.D., Associate Professor, University of South Australia, Adelaide
